DONEGAL AND TYRONE U-21S MUST MEET AGAIN

PETER CAMPBELL

A last gasp save off the line by Ethan O'Donnell in ordinary time gave Donegal another chance in their Ulster U-21 quarter-final as the game ended level in Healy Park after extra-time on Wednesday night.

Tyrone..... 0-14
Donegal..... 0-14
(after extra-time)

The sides must meet again next Wednesday night in MacCumhaill Park. In the end a draw was the right result as both sides had chances.

Apart from the goalline save, Donegal can thank Michael Langan for a superb display of kicking, especially in the second half. The St. Michael's man missed a few opportunities, but he hit some super scores from dead balls.

There were plenty of mistakes but Donegal will rue fifteen wides over the course of the 80 plus minutes.

Donegal showed seven changes from the team in the programme and two players, Niall O'Donnell and Lorcan Connor, were added to their lengthy injured list.

Donegal dominated the opening half but only had a point to spare at the break as they led 0-5 to 0-4.

They were very wasteful up front, hitting nine bad wides. They were trying to take most of their plays up the middle but Tyrone were well set up defensively.

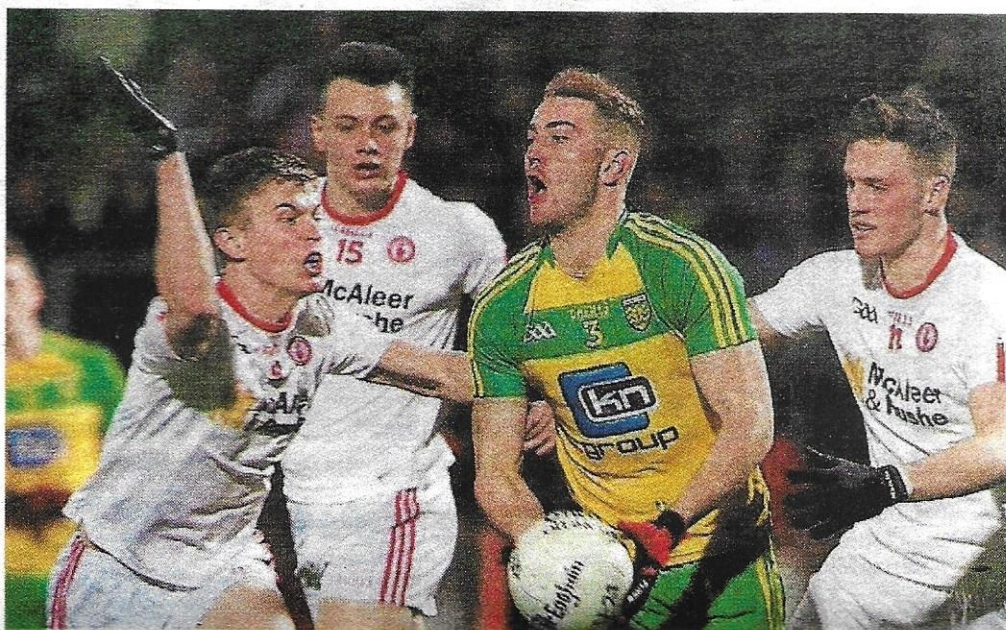

Tyrone had the opening point on six minutes, Michael O'Neill finding the range. Adam Neely had Donegal level on seven minutes after Jamie Brennan won a free, but points from Paul Donaghy and Liam Rafferty had Tyrone two clear.

Donegal eventually got going in the second quarter and Daire O Baoill hit a great point to reduce the leeway and Stephen McBrearty won and pointed a free to level matters on 21 minutes.

Adam Neely had the point of the half with the outside of his left boot to edge Donegal ahead, but a silly free given away by Stephen McMenamin allowed Lee Brennan to level matters again.

Donegal almost had a goal within 15 seconds of the restart, Jamie Brennan having his effort deflected to the side netting. From the '45 Michael Langan found the range.

Donegal's Stephen McMenamin on the ball during Wednesday night's game against Tyrone.

The points continued to be swapped. Nathan Donnelly for Tyrone and a Stephen McBrearty free for Donegal before Tyrone sub Conan McLernan dummied a few times before launching their sixth point.

Then within a minute Tyrone were in front as David Mulgrew (2) and Fergal Meenagh hit points to lead 0-9 to 0-7 on 41 minutes.

Eoghan Ban Gallagher made a great break but his effort was wide with a goal chance on offer. Michael Langan hit a great free from 48m to cut the lead to one and Tony McClenaghan levelled as Donegal were almost in for a goal again on 45 minutes.

Michael Langan hit another great long range free from 45m and near the sideline to put Donegal back in front on 48 minutes.

There was a controversial moment a minute later as McLernan was clearly fouled going through but play was waved on and Donegal broke for Michael Carroll to have a chance, but his effort was well saved.

It was all square again on 51 minutes as Johnny Harkin hit a great point for Tyrone. Donegal had another goal chance as Conor Morrison was dispossessed in front of goal when almost in.

Lee Brennan pushed Tyrone ahead again from a free on 56 minutes. Ryan Loughran was shown black as the game went in to added time. Michael Langan stepped up to the free to level matters, again from outside the '45.

Tyrone had a chance to win the game with time almost up but Danny Rodgers made a great save but as the ball rebounded towards the line, somehow Ethan O'Donnell got back to take the game to extra-time.

Seven minutes into added time Michael O'Neill broke through but his effort for goal was deflected over by Danny Rodgers.

Michael Langan won a free for McBrearty to point but on the stroke of half-time in extra-time, David Mulgrew levelled matters again at 0-13 each.

Eoghan Ban Gallagher got forward to edge Donegal ahead again three minutes into the second half. However, Lee Brennan levelled again with three minutes left from a '45' to set up Wednesday night's replay.
